Dedication

I dedicate this book to the light workers and Consciousness Clearers who have a commitment to leave this planet a more loving place than it was when they got here.

I dedicate this book to those wise enough to know that their demonstration of being is a far more effective teacher than their words.

I offer this work to those of you who have the courage and commitment to be an authentic demonstration of enlightened Love and fulfillment in the world.

Introduction

Welcome. This is the second book in a series that is part of a course in spiritual growth. My first book, Seeing through Eyes That Bless, lays a crucial foundation for living as a master of Love in this world. This book (Being Magnetic to Your Highest Good) assumes you have that foundation, and builds upon it. While this book can stand on its own and be valuable by itself, it will be far more powerful and make much more sense to you if you have read the first book, Seeing Through Eyes that Bless. In addition to the fact that this book is a continuation of the spiritual education we've begun in Seeing through Eyes That Bless, there are two more compelling reasons for reading them in my suggested order:

First, if you're going to step into a more powerful role as a creator and manifestor, you want all that you create and manifest to be an expression of the enlightened Love you are. You don't want your increased power to be used in the service of limited or unenlightened perspectives. Most of our miscreations are a result of leaving Love consciousness.

Second, as you face new opportunities for breakthrough and transformation, you need to be able to navigate all of the upset and breakdown you might experience as you confront the ways in which you have been limiting yourself. Sometimes it's hard to face the truth – especially when the truth about yourself is less than flattering.

You need to have the freedom to acknowledge the truth regarding operating off purpose, and missing the mark, and even failing – without going into make-wrong and self-punishment. You need to be grounded enough in your own validity that you are free to engage in self-improvement without needing to justify and defend being the way you are.

You need to be able to count on yourself to face any emotions at all, and allow them to be without trying to change them, get rid of them, deny them, or distract yourself from them.

Seeing through Eyes That Bless gives us a foundation of enlightened Love to look from and look through, enabling us to take an honest look at the things that might have been too difficult for us to acknowledge and look at in the past, or perhaps too difficult to stay with long enough to allow for their completion. We might have seen glimpses of the truth about our self, or we might have even had our noses rubbed in it; but we probably didn't have the training or strength of character to just stand there and be with the matter for as long as is needed for its transformation. Our typical response was to drop the matter, stop talking about it, repress it, deny it, and distract ourselves with something else.

For example, if you discovered how the way you were being caused a certain undesirable outcome to manifest in your life, without having this deeper ability to Love yourself, you might go into make-wrong mode, and make yourself wrong for having been so bad as to create that outcome. Your self-make-wrong would then add another layer of resistance to the original problem; and what you resist persists. As a result, the undesirable symptoms and condition continue to stay with you, because you haven't addressed the cause of them yet.

So without the ability to face that whole phenomenon – from a place of Love – you're stuck with more of the same – your lack of Love, feeding your lack of Love.

Being Magnetic to Your Highest Good

Knowing you can count on yourself to navigate the process of self-improvement and breakthrough from a space of Love makes all the difference in the world. When you are empowered in your ability to Love it all, you can more fully count on yourself to embrace and face any experience at all, and successfully navigate it to its completion. You are more able to be with anything that you uncover within yourself. No matter how deep and dark and ugly it looked to you before, you can face it and still be Love about it, and be Love towards yourself.

With this new inner strength, with this new place of power to look from and look through, we're now free to acknowledge and examine much deeper levels of our existence. We can take responsibility for our previous creations, uplevel them, and truly create anew – not from a judgmental position of feeling like the old way was wrong, but from a new clarity, a clear knowing of how to most optimally function on purpose.

Even if you have read Seeing through Eyes That Bless, I want to remind you: by relating to your current condition as a gift that is here to serve you, you get to experience being blessed with a gift. In this case, bringing the ways you limit your self to your attention puts you in a position to heal and transform those limitations. Naturally, the healing and transforming of your limitations will empower you to function either more effectively, or on a better path, or both. That's a gift to yourself.

So as you recognize previously unacknowledged descriptions of yourself in this book, instead of judging and labeling yourself, (or thinking that I am judging and labeling you), we are simply describing ways that we are set up to function. It's a description, not a condemnation. For example, instead of declaring "this day is ruined because it's raining" (which is a judgment that places the label of "ruined" over your experience of your day), you now get to look at a rainy day as a description of a condition to be considered. As a description of a condition, you get to choose the most optimal way to deal with that condition.

The same principle applies to your self. Instead of reacting to all of your "not-aligned with your higher purpose" behaviors from a place of judgment (which then locks the condition in place), you now get to be with all of that from a space of Enlightened Love – which allows who you are to heal and evolve. Looking from Love, we are free to truthfully describe the way we are set up to function, and extrapolate what we are likely to continue creating in the future. If you want a different outcome in the future than the one you are currently set up to produce, you simply choose the best way to alter how you are functioning so as to bring forth the future you desire.

A natural expression of seeing your self through eyes that bless is having the intention to bless your self. I invite you to use this book to give yourself the blessing of improvement – as an expression of Love for yourself. Allow yourself to improve, to excel, to create breakthroughs, and to radically transform the way you show up and function in life.

Being Magnetic to Your Highest Good

In order to optimally bless your self, you must be set up as "one who can receive blessings." Are you set up to function in a way that allows you to manifest your life vision easily and joyfully? Is your energy set up in a way that allows for life to show up supporting who you are? Or, are you functioning in a way that life is experienced as a series of obstacles and struggles and unfulfilled desires?

This "part two" book offers profound insights and unique perspectives on both:

How "who you are being" draws circumstances to you, and

How you can shift who you are being.

The purpose of this book is not to teach people how to manifest things. This book is for teaching people how to become one who effortlessly manifests all that they need. What's the difference? The difference is your Altitude of Being. It's the difference between functioning in alignment with Higher Purpose, versus applying a technique on the world – without bothering to change your self. The difference is in who you are in the matter when you're consciously functioning as an authentic expression of Divine Qualities.

The key to effective action and accomplishment lies in noticing who you're being. Simply by being aware of who you (or others) are being, you gain insight into resolving just about any problem you experience.

We will get to the heart of the matter, and deal directly with the source of the world you experience, the "Who You're Being that's generating your world." Rather than handling the effects of the world you've been generating up until now, we will transform you as a generator – that is to say, we will enable you to alter who you are being so as to have you show up extending a nurturing world that frees you to enjoy what you truly want in life.

Being Magnetic to Your Highest Good will teach you how to be the solution, rather than struggling to produce results that "who you are being" will not allow.

You are already being a particular kind of clearing, or filter, for the life force energies to move through you. Life is already supporting and expressing who you are being now.

You could keep trying to make your contribution at the level you're operating at now – or you could make your contribution from a higher state of being and functioning – a state in which not only are you set up to make a greater contribution, but you're set up to make your contribution with greater ease and flow.

Our focus in Being Magnetic to Your Highest Good is to support you in consciously choosing the qualities you both radiate and attract, so that you can function in a way that you and your life show up aligned with your higher vision of joyful, purposeful living. This book will empower you in actively improving your ability to attract, allow, and enjoy wonderful experiences.

Being Magnetic to Your Highest Good

We will show you some shortcuts you can use to get to the experiences you really want – regardless of the circumstances. We will make attainable the possibility of "Living From Fulfillment," of relating from a place of having already arrived – of no longer being stuck with the reasons you've used to avoid loving life now. This work will support you in creating a breakthrough in quality – the ongoing, moment to moment quality of your life.

The Power of Being

While Being is usually considered less important than Doing, Who You Are Being is the most essential difference-making element for experiencing satisfaction in the way you engage in life, and for creating results and accomplishments that are satisfying to you.

Who You Are Being is the primary blueprint you give to the universe to establish the quality of your actions and experiences.

If you look at most of the "improve your communication" type of books, tapes, and seminars, you begin to notice that most of them are offering you "more and better" techniques for getting your agenda across. But ask yourself this: How do you feel when you know someone is applying a technique on you? You probably feel manipulated, maybe even resentful. And yet, some people can successfully use those techniques.

Why do these techniques work for some and fail miserably for others? You know how you feel when someone is manipulating you, or using a technique on you. You also know how you feel when someone is communicating authentically from their heart.

There are qualities of being that you are always radiating, and people pick up (usually below conscious awareness) these emanations that are coming from you. It's "Who You Are in the matter," and where you're coming from that determines whether your communication (including techniques) succeeds or not.

When you are being a person who is respectable, you evoke respect from those around you. When you are being "someone worth paying attention to," you evoke the attention of those about you. Conversely, if you are emitting the qualities of "somebody nobody pays attention to," then no matter how well-crafted your words, you'll have difficulty getting people to pay attention to you.

Who You're Being is noticeable in virtually every domain in which humans participate. We all are capable of noticing and feeling the difference between different states of being. We all have firsthand experience of the difference that Who You're Being makes in the actions you do.

We are so keenly aware of this phenomenon that we are able to tell the difference between a loving action delivered to hurt, and a hurtful action delivered in Love.
